

Tests and Laboratory analysis

Mechanical and chemical characterization tests of transdermal systems

Mechanical characterization tests such as bioadhesion, post-humectation bioadhesion, and rupture resistance can be performed, as well as chemical and biopharmaceutical evaluations (permeation studies using Franz-type diffusion cells).